MAIN LIBRARY

LIBRARY RESOURCES

The Main Library is home to a wide range of subject areas, related to all the disciplines present at the University.

Faculty libraries and libraries of institutes present collections directly related to the academic sections.

Our collection consists of:

- non-periodic publications (books) published after year 1800,
- continuous publications (periodicals, series and composite works),
- digital collections and electronic databases.

HOW TO USE THE LIBRARY

You need to create an account using your student card, you can do this on the library website, but will need to activate in person at the main Library Lending Desk.

You will get a unique code that enables you to access.

Remember to activate your account at the beginning of every academic year.

Please note that your student ID card works as your library card.

Your library account number is the same as the student ID card number. First password to the reader's account is the PESEL number given on the card.

HOW THE LIBRARY WORKS

Borrowing books for use outside the library is available to all registered users with a valid library account through the lending room.

Journals and magazines are used at the library in one of our open access rooms. These areas are accessible to anyone with a valid identity document.

We have an up to date remote access system, which allows you to borrow books and check availability of resources, this is open to users with a valid account.

Follow the link below for full access and instructions:
